

PROGRESSIVE WINSTON.

The Winston-Salem West End Hotel and Land Company—Plans for the New Hotel Almost Completed.—The Hotel to be built at Once.

(Staff Cor. of THE CHRONICLE)

WINSTON, N. C., July 23d, 1890.

There are more evidences of thrift manifested in Winston than perhaps any other place in North Carolina, and it is rapidly taking its place among the largest cities of the State. Every line of business is in a flourishing condition and people seeking employment never fail to find it here. I have been told that fifteen people who came here with an excursion about ten days ago secured positions and are now here at work. A young man who arrived here with me from Raleigh a few evenings ago with only one acquaintance in the city, had a position before nine o'clock next morning in one of the largest dry goods establishments in the place.

I had the pleasure of a stroll over the property of the Winston-Salem West End Hotel and Land Company with the Secretary, our former townsmen, Mr. P. M. Wilson. It is a grand property.

A magnificent body of woodland embracing one hundred acres lies right in the corporate limits of the town. It is over a half mile long and a little less than a half mile wide, running to Summit, the western and one of the handsomest streets in the town, then skirting the western limits for three quarters of a mile and south over one-quarter of a mile wide it joins the town of Salem. As practically, it is the only land immediately on the northern and western boundaries of Winston available for building purposes. The lands are rolling and Mr. Ludlow, well and favorably known to our Raleigh people, has succeeded in trading around the knolls a most picturesque boulevard, which is cross-cut by broad streets going into the connecting streets now built up and traversed by the electric railway.

On the most commanding point of the whole property, dominating the broad valley below it and overlooking the hillsides and forests which gradually ascend to the West, as well as the Salem Mountains on the north, and the Twin Cities south and east, is the famous hotel site. It has been the dream of Winston's progressive men for years to see this hill capped by a structure that would be worthy of the town and its great interests. They will very shortly see this realized. The Company has engaged the services of Messrs. Wheelwright & Havens, eminent architects of Boston, Mass., and the plans for a hotel to contain one hundred and sixty bed-rooms, handsome offices, parlors, etc., will be in the hands of the builders before the end of August and it will be completed, furnished and ready for summer visitors in 1891.

The company has spared no expense in having the grounds laid off in the most scientific as well as artistic manner. Distinguished landscape engineers were consulted and the practical details of the work entrusted to Mr. Ludlow, who has already won reputation in the field of engineering.

The maps will be ready for the public in the course of two weeks and the lots will then be placed on sale. The company declines to "boom" its property. They say the property will take care of itself. Besides, Winston people, who found the site of their city a forest not two decades ago and who have built up the most prosperous and self-reliant town in the State; do not like to associate fictitious values with their hard earned property. They know that mere speculation will not build a town that will stand the tests of dull times. They have built one that has and will, and desire only to add to it.

Mr. W. A. Whitaker, one of the leaders of the town in every good enterprise, is the president of this company, and the directory is made up of men who have made their fortune and their names in Winston, and have the entire confidence of the business public.

The readers of the CHRONICLE will be glad to know that we have arranged to have a bright, new letter from this growing town every day, commencing with our Sunday's issue.

OXFORD BUDGET.

Farmers in Business—New Buildings and Enterprises—The Alliance and Politics.

(Staff Cor. STATE CHRONICLE.)

OXFORD, N. C., July 23.—The large Farmers' Alliance warehouse here in course of erection is assuming quite the appearance of a business place. It is a 225x195 feet two-story brick building. It is said to be one of the largest tobacco warehouses in the State. It will be conveniently fitted up in every respect for selling and handling leaf tobacco, and will be completed in time for this fall's operations.

W. E. Queen is erecting a large brick tobacco warehouse for Davis & Gregory. It will be ready to handle the new crop this fall.

There is to be built here a new Presbyterian church, to cost between eight and ten thousand dollars.

Scott & Adams are building a large brick prize house.

The Oxford Land and Improvement company is laying off five hundred acres in streets.

I learned yesterday that a contract had been made with the Snow Modern Tobacco Barn company, at High Point, to move their works to Oxford. Oxford gives them a lot and puts up the buildings to induce them to come.

The Farmers' Alliance smoking tobacco factory is in full operation getting stock on hand for the fall trade.

A negro boy here has displayed a great deal of ingenuity by inventing and making what is called a quareole. It is a four-wheeled conveyance propelled along with the feet. He had never seen as much as a picture of anything of the kind. While it is a rough machine it moves along with good speed.

Crops in Granville county are said to be very fine, but in some sections they are suffering for rain.

The farmers are busy curing tobacco, it is thought that with good seasons from now out the tobacco crop in this county will be unusually large.

The erection of residences is going on in various portions of the town, and the spirit of improvement seems to be in the minds of these enterprising people.

Mr. N. Penick, of Virginia, who has recently purchased the Oxford Female Seminary is here renovating and putting in new furniture, getting ready for the fall session.

It is rumored that the Episcopalians will either renovate their church or build a new one.

Politics.

The county convention will be held in Oxford on the 30th of next month. Several Farmers' Alliance men with whom we have talked say they are anxious to hear from Vance. Everybody almost with one voice is proud of the nomination of Williams for Congress and Winston for Judge.

While the Alliance of this county is fully alive to their interest and will certainly act accordingly, the Order in this county is composed of sound, conservative men, and will take care that the Republicans need not expect any patronage from the Alliance.

Haywood White Sulphur Springs.

Always a favorite with Eastern people, now with A. J. RUTTES as Manager, all may look out for a good season. This resort has greater altitude than any other mountain resort. The fare, of course, with Mr. Ruttes at the head of the tables, will be splendid. Fine sulphur and cool spring water; bracing, invigorating air, refreshing nights, electric bells, moderate rates, &c., are some of the attractions. If you contemplate visiting the mountains this season, by all means go to Haywood.
